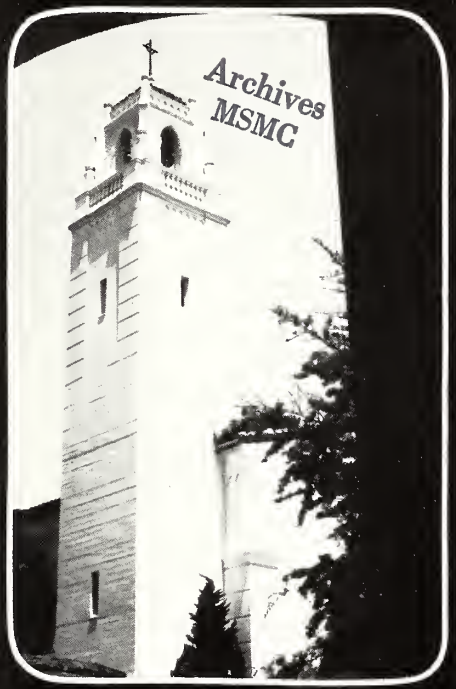
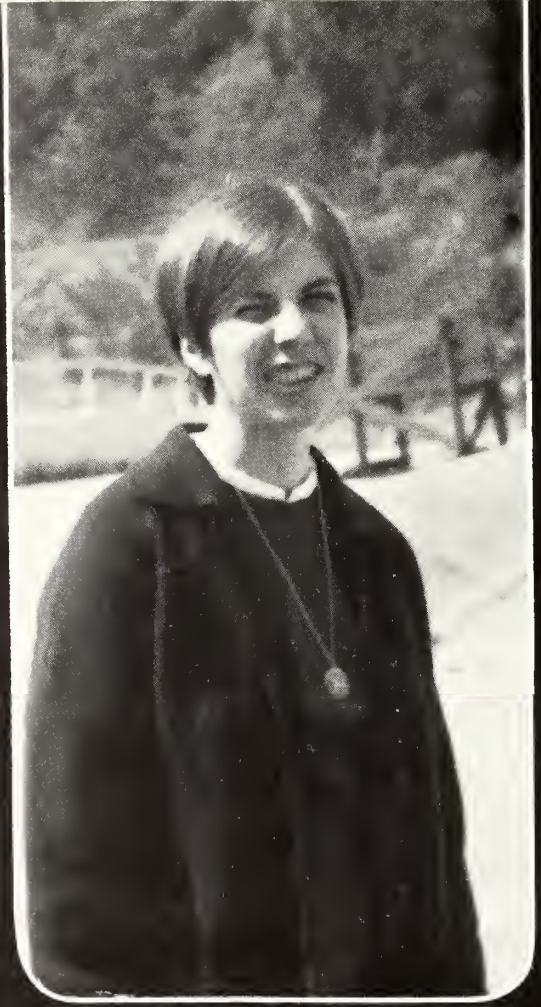
Let There Be Light



THE YEAR OF OUTSTANDING PEOPLE

DEDICATION



Sister Joseph Adele
Assistant Professor of English

Let your light shine before men, so that they will see the good things that you do and give praise to your Father in heaven.

Mathew 5:14-16

Sister Ignatia
Professor of Art Emeritus
Only living founder

Sister Rose de Lima
Professor of Education Emeritus
Director of Alumnae

Light slants down canyons, through shadowed arches.
It touches leaf by leaf the trees.

This light mirrors Christ
the light of the world.
He illumines the beauty of the Mount in the people here.

Light shines, too, from dedicated lives.

To four such persons for their service to the Mount, we dedicate our annual.

I don't know what your destiny will be,

But one thing I know,

The only ones among you who will be really happy

Are those who have sought and found how to serve.

THE OLD FAMILIAR FACES

I have had playmates, I have had companions,
In my days of childhood, in my joyful school-days;
All, all are gone, the old familiar faces.

I have been laughing, I have been carousing,
Drinking late, sitting late, with my bosom cronies;
All, all are gone, the old familiar faces.

I loved a Love once, fairest among women:
Closed are her doors on me, I must not see her-
All, all are gone, the old familiar faces.

I have a friend, a kinder friend has no man:
Like an ingrate, I left my friend abruptly;
Left him, to muse on the old familiar faces.

Ghost-like, I paced round the haunts of my childhood,
Earth seem'd a desert I was bound to traverse,
Seeking to find the old familiar faces.

Friend of my bosom, thou more than a brother,
Why wert not thou born in my father's dwelling?
So might we talk of the old familiar faces.

How some they have died, and some they have left me,
And some are taken from me; all are departed;
All, all are gone, the old familiar faces.

--Charles Lamb

Life gives you pretty much what you give it. She gives beauty to those who try to add to her beauty. She gives happiness to those who share their happiness with her. She gives, even, love to those who love her. But these are very, very few. Almost all of us have a capacity for being loved. But few of us have a capacity for loving.

--Myles Connolly

If I find Him with great ease, perhaps He is not my God.
If I cannot hope to find Him at all,
is He my God?
If I find Him whenever I wish,
have I found Him?
If He can find me whenever He wishes, and lets me know who He is and who I am,
and if I then know that He Whom I could not find has found me;
then I know He is the Lord, my God:
He has touched me with the finger that made me out of nothing.
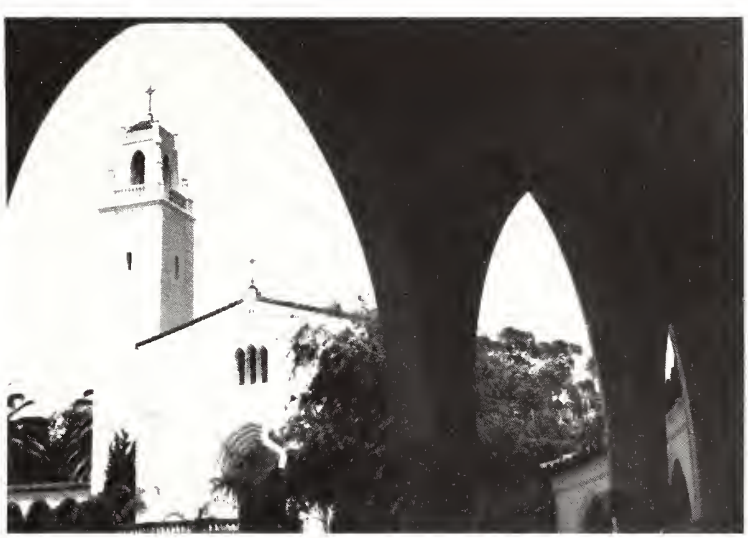
--Thomas Merton



ADMINISTRATION

No darkness can withstand dawn

--A.T. Padovano

"Let there be light"--the great fiat of Genesis is both the prelude to and the necessary condition for all being and doing. It is, in a special sense, the imperative that gives purpose and direction to all human learning; so we may consider the Mount and our activity here as a response to this primordial command--to bring light--to continue creation.

If our response is to be integral, we must pause from time to time and consciously advert to the deeper significance of what we are and what we do as part of a community of learners, that is, light seekers and light bringers. This conscious examination will perhaps renew our courage, our creative energies and help us to understand better the connection between the first light of Genesis, our lives as we live them, and the College which gives us for a motto, "Deus illuminatio mea."

As we proceed into that faint beam called future
our lifeline spectrum will always reserve a particular radiance for this year for as we sunward gaze
the shadow behind will forever contain what we have learned and lived.

Astronault's log (deletion)

The moon, finally, was no surprise.
As we always thought, dead, dusty.
Not much to it, really.
You prepared us well for that.
But not so well for other things.
The silence, for example.
You never said it would be so still,
so unearthly still, quiet.
Or did you know?
Even as the data grew and the little clicks continued, silence settled over us.
And we were not prepared for that.
Did you know there is nothing to look at from up here but the old earth itself?
Nor were we prepared for that.
The moon was no surprise, but the earth was.
We find it awkward, embarrassing almost, to look from our black window on that blue green ball where you are, where we were once, where we hope to be again.
We were not prepared to look from silence on our own earth, our own earth there.
We did not know the earth till now. Isn't that strange?
We had to leave the place
to see it at all.
Maybe it's the black nothing
to see it at all.
Maybe it's the black nothing in which the earth floats, hangs that grabs you most.
We never knew how close to nothing our own place is.
We feel odd feelings.
How do we get data here?
Earth hangs in nothing;
how do you program that?
Earth looks very small,
helpless almost from here.
We feel funny looking at it, at you, as if we caught you in a mistake, or blunder.
Strange, but we are protected against mistakes out here, but earth is not.
You are more vulnerable than we are.
We are embarrassed for you.
But you are protected from silence and from the black nothing and from the odd feelings.
You are protected from earth's vulnerability, from embarrassment.
You are smaller than we are.
We worry for you, earth.
You are very close to nothing.
You must be more careful with yourself.
As careful as you are with us.
We are silent for you.
You did not prepare us for this;
to look back on you with love.

I hold that a little rebellion, now and then is a good thing, and as necessary in the political world as storms are in the physical.

Our task as men is to find the few principles that will calm the infinite anguish of free souls. We must mend what has been torn apart, make justice imaginable again in a world so obviously unjust, give happiness a meaning once more to peoples poisoned by the misery of a century.
